• Program Points •

• Literacy

Children express their personal opinions and ideas in words through their journal, and workbook, doing English literacy work (phonics, graded readers, writing). This increases their awareness of letter and sound associations and relationships.

• Phonics

To learn to read English, children must figure out the relationship between sounds and letters. Children learn the sounds of the alphabet letters aiming to be able to understand a simple word by themselves.

• Reading

We let them read books with Native teachers so they can speak using natural English Rhythms. Through this program, they will learn how to pronounce English.

• Speaking

This is to practice conversational English such as introductions, show and tell, presenting their journal in front of other people. Children feel confidence by practicing speaking, and learn excellent behavior and willingness to show their talents.

• Activities and games

Art is like a second language to grow your talents through expressing your imagination. We have seasonal topics and themes to develop creativity. These subjects are about predicting outcomes and observing their validity through experiments. These activities involve creativity and logical thinking. Through wonder and enjoyment of the process children become curious to learn more about these fascinating subjects.
